VARIETIES

BIG VALLEY CLING or IMPROVED HOBSON: This is one of our most prolific peaches. It is a large creamy white cling-stone with a large red blush on one side, and of very good quality. It has proved to withstand frost better than most other varieties. Ripens about June 23rd.

FRANK: Outstanding late commercial peach. Resists frost well, excellent quality, ripens just as Elberta is gone or about August 5th. It is a medium sized yellow cling with red cheek, very attractive and brings good prices.

FRANKIE: A large, yellow free-stone ripening about Aug. 15th or about 10 days after the Frank. Looks like the Frank but is larger, ships well, and brings good prices on the markets. Good for both commercial and home orchards.

ELBERTA: A large yellow free-stone. Most popular of all peaches, good commercial variety of good quality. Have never been able to supply the demand for this popular peach. Ripens July 15th.

HALE-HAVEN: A large, round, red-cheeked yellow free-stone of good quality. This peach is a cross between J. H. Hale and South Haven combining the good qualities of the two. Ripens about June 25th.

J. H. HALE or GIANT HALE: The largest peach known. Yellow free-stone. Ripens about July 10th. Excellent quality.

GOLDEN JUBILEE: An early yellow free-stone of good quality. Very good peach for home orchards. Ripens about June 15th.

RED INDIAN: The largest of Indian peaches. It is a large peach deep red nearly all over with red flesh going clear to the seed. Very good for making sweet pickles. Ripens about Aug. 1st.

RED BIRD or EARLY WHEELER: A large, white cling with red cheek. A good early peach that ripens about June 1st.

RED MAY: The earliest ripening peach. Ripens about May 20th.

NEW ELBERTA: This is one of the best quality peaches that we grow. The tree is a thrifty grower and a prolific bearer. The fruit is medium in size, deep red and yellow in color. The flesh is bright yellow and very sweet. It has a small seed. Good for eating out of the hand, deep freezing or for canning. Every home orchard should have this peach. Ripens about June 15th.

VARIETIES

DOUBLE RED DELICIOUS: The finest of fruit for eating, the trees grow to be large but need a pollinator to make them bear fruit. Plant with Yellow Delicious, King David or Smokehouse. Ripens in September.

YELLOW DELICIOUS: An excellent eating apple but unlike the Red Delicious it is also a good cooking apple. The trees are good bearers and fast growers. Bears young. Plant King David or Smokehouse with it to insure a good set of fruit. Ripens in September.

KING DAVID: A medium sized red apple with a spicy tang. Good for canning or cooking. Trees bear young.

SMOKEHOUSE: A large flat green apple that is unsurpassed for cooking. It is an early and heavy bearer. Ripens August 15th.

VARIETIES

BARTLETT: One of the best of eating pears. The flesh is sweet and juicy. The trees are vigorous and productive.

DOUGLAS: This is one of the earliest bearing pears, bearing a nice amount of pears the second and third year after planting. Good for eating and canning.

GARBER: This pear is called by many the sugar pear because it is so sweet when picked right off the tree. The trees are vigorous growers but do not begin to bear until about five years of age.

KIEFFER: The best bearing pear for this section. The trees are vigorous and bear large yellow fruit that is good for canning and preserves. Most people gather this pear when it is too green. Ripens the last of September or first of October.

LECONTE: A medium sized pear with creamy white, tough skin and white tender flesh. A good eating and cooking pear. Ripens July 15th.

VARIETIES

BURKETT: A large round thin shelled nut that shells good. The kernel is oily and very fine flavored. Do not plant in low bottoms or on seepy land.

CLARK: A medium sized pecan of good quality. The tree is a good bearer and a thrifty grower. Should be planted on well drained upland soils.

EASTERN SCHLEY OR SCHLEY: A long, very thin shelled nut of the very best quality. The tree makes a pretty tree for planting in yards. For East Texas and Eastern States.

MAHAN: The largest pecan grown. The nuts are very long, thin shelled and have a good flavor. The trees are upright growers and heavy bearers. Very good for planting in yards. For Eastern States, East Texas and low damp places of West Texas.

SAN SABA IMPROVED: Very thin shelled, medium sized nut of top quality. For the uplands in West and Central Texas.

SQUIRREL'S DELIGHT: A medium sized nut of good quality. The trees are early and heavy bearers. For Central and West Texas.

RIVERSIDE: The nuts of this pecan are medium to large in size, oblong in shape. The tree is a very thrifty grower and is a heavy bearer. For Central and West Texas.

PECANS (Continued)

WESTERN SCHLEY: Long, very thin shelled nut of good quality. Trees are very prolific bearers. For Central and West Texas.

Our Pecan Trees Are Grown On Selected Rootstocks

We have found that there are some pecan seed that produce superior rootstocks. After careful selection and observation, we have chosen one which produces a more vigorous, thrifty and quick-growing tree. These trees also develop a superior root system. Our trees have plenty of side roots that extend from the top to the bottom of the tap root. Some of our seedlings have grown to a size large enough to be budded just six months after planting. By setting trees that have been budded on these root-stocks, you get a tree that makes quicker growth and comes into bearing one to two years earlier than the ordinary tree.

A PECAN ORCHARD IS A LIFETIME INVESTMENT. One should always set the very best trees obtainable. Once a scrub tree has been set, one will seldom dig it up and reset to a good tree. The poor tree remains and takes up the same space that a good tree would occupy. One or two pounds of pecans will pay the difference in price. A pecan orchard will prove a much better investment if all of the trees are vigorous and thrifty.

A few pecan trees planted around your home will increase the value of your property.

We invite you to come and see our trees and compare them with any other that you may find.

STUART Pecan: Stuart comes nearer to being well adapted to all sections of the country and all soils than most any other variety. It is a good producer and a fast growing healthy tree. The meat has rich pecan flavor and the shell is medium thick. Stuart is highly resistant to scab and a regular bearer.

SUCCESS: One of the most popular eastern varieties because of its excellent flavor, large, plump, smooth kernels that release from the thin soft shell. These nuts usually run about forty to the pound. The tree is a beautiful grower and is highly resistant to scab. Success ripens a few days later than Stuart.
